sun that received the salutes of the warships of the White Squadron lying in the broad Hudson, when Memorial Day dawned this morning.

Fromise had been given that to-day's observance should be more impressive, more elaborate than those of any previous Memorial Day, and Dame Nature, who oried a year ago to-day and frowned dismally the year before, smiled beningly upon those in the metropolis who had set their hearts upon honoring the huave men who fell in battle for the preservation inviolate of the Union of States, and those others who came home from the awful strife to die in the ripeness of years by their own firesides.

"OLD GLORY" EVERYWHERE.

"Old Glory" was flung to the breezes at liaif-mast from a thousand peaks this morning. The Stars and Stripes, the flag of the Empire State and the municipal flag floated from the staffs on the City Hall, and there were flags on the Post-Office, Sustom-House, Barge-Office, Madison Square Garden, Emigrant Savings Bank and other public buildings, and, what is not a common thing in any other country of the earth, the starry banner of freedom floated proudly from the spires of several city churches.

Little flags were stuck by street-car drivers in the headdresses of their horses, and house-fronts and windows wer decked out with the red, white and blue, with here and there the green of Irland, the red and yellow of Spain and the tricolor of France, to indicate that within dweit an adopted child of the republic, who had come from another land.

It was a holiday. The whole atmosphere denoted it. Public offices and business houses were closed, and the streats were thronged with pretty girls in their "best bit and tucker," stately matrons, men and boys, in holiday attire.

And it was astounding the quantity of flowers that were shown. Flowers are not so common in a great city, but there were none as poor but that they had obtained pretty blossoms for the Spirit and staff was recently honored by a promotion to a Brigadier-Generalship.
